DIPLOMAS.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT THE UNIVERSITY.

Speeches of the Graduating Class—Award of Prizes—Reception at Dean Matthews's—Cremation of Poor Old Trigonometry.

The closing exercises of the year were held yesterday morning, beginning at 10:30, at the university. Members of the sophomore class had beautifully decorated the chapel with palms, ferns and flowers. Over the stage was the motto of the graduating class, "Spectemur agendo," and a floral piece representing the class badge and the class colors.

Upon the stage were seated the president of the university, the board of directors, the deans of the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Medicine, the graduating class and the faculty of the College of Liberal Arts. Music was furnished by Aylsworth's Orchestra. After prayer by Rev. J. W. Van Cleave, the seniors delivered their graduating addresses, of which the first was by Mary Cryder Bradley of Glendora, and was entitled:

THE FUNCTION OF THE NOVEL.

Any good gift may be abused, but such abuse is not an objection to the gift itself. Whatever use ally people may make of novels, prose fiction, the response to a deep instinct of humanity. As science and philosophy are studied for the sake of satisfying the soul's demand for truth, so the novel is studied for the sake of satisfying the soul's demand for beauty. The primary purpose of the novel is art. The art of the novelist is to represent but not to imitate. The novelist represents continued action.

The function of the novel, then, is noble; but how little it is understood. Possibly a majority of novel readers use novels merely as instruments for exciting unhealthy emotions. The current sentimental-emotional novel, the humorous novel and the exciting novel of adventure are not works of art, but mere playthings for minds which must be amused.

Novels take the place in modern life that was held in ancient times by epic and to some extent dramatic and lyric poetry. Whoever will produce an "Epic" or "Iliad" in our day must write an historical novel. If he severely prosaic life robs us of gods, demigods and fairies, it demands in their place god-like, ideal human characters, and such the novelist must find or invent.

In some quarters the attempt is being made to divorce ethics from ethics and prose fiction. These writers say it matters not what the moral influence of the novel is; we seek only beauty. Monsieur Taine sneers at the virtue of all the heroes and heroines of English novels, as though goodness and beauty were not naturally joined. Even the novel is a parasite has its place, for a secondary object need not defeat a primary one.

Is "Nicholas Nickleby" less a work of art because it aimed at the destruction of abuses in English schools? That it is art is genuine, is shown by the fact that a hundred schoolmasters for Mr. Squeers' portrait of themselves, and threatened the unknown author's life.

The function of the novel, then, is, by presenting ideals of the true, the beautiful and the good to lift human life to its ideal.

James Edward Young of University spoke on

CHARACTER AND ENVIRONMENT.

A man's character is that which he really is; environment is the sum of things to which a man is related, as his home, his parents, society. To how great an extent does and ought a man's environment to affect his character?

From Englishmen, we have inherited our race, government, customs, religion and climate. Again, appetites and dispositions are inherited. Families have existed in which offspring of a certain type have actually tainted the blood with a predisposition toward those crimes. Such environments force themselves on a man's character, and for their influence no one is responsible.

But there comes a time when the individual's own personality becomes able to change or overcome his environment. The taint of heredity may be kept within bounds, if not obliterated. No circumstances have sufficient power to arrest a determined will. Napoleon said: "I make my circumstances."

Only this superiority to environment can explain the truth that the man who is needed at any critical point of history always appears. Luther, Knox, Wesley—all the reformers, all the great men of history—contradicted their environment.

Even if the power of environment should be for any individual irresistible, he may rely upon divine power to raise him above environment. Adverse circumstances, indeed, may be the blows of God's tripartite hammer, which are the tests of strength and beauty, and finally to place upon character the image and superscription of the Divine One Himself.

The next oration was by William Card Whitcomb of Glendora, whose subject was:

"EDUCATION FOR CITIZENSHIP."

Mr. Whitcomb said that no fact of history was better demonstrated than that the cornerstone of national welfare was intelligence and morality. This is especially true of the United States, because the franchise is extended more widely than in any other government. The schools are the only place where the ballot is given to the common people. The extent of our territory and the diversity of interests add to the necessity for raising the people up to the level of the people.

What is the Nation doing to provide for this necessity? The colleges are doing something, for all studies are a preparation for citizenship. Technological and industrial schools help to make industrious and contented citizens. The States are doing what they can with their common schools and a few universities, but the Federal Government has as yet done practically nothing to insure the first condition of good citizenship.

The schools are inadequate to the task because their work is largely counteracted by political customs. The average voter gets his notions of political duty from the partisan newspaper and the partisan speaker, both of which tend too much to cultivate passion and prejudice rather than conscience and reason. Moreover, in the intervals between elections the voter's interest dies away, and he fails to inform himself concerning the acts of his representatives. Thus the management of parties by corrupt politicians becomes possible, and the officer of government answers for his acts, not to the voters, but to the bosses.

The mass of ignorance thus engendered is swelled by admitting to suffrage unprepared foreigners. Law naturalization laws are laxly enforced or evaded by the "rail-roading" through the ineligible persons by ward politicians. The extent of the evil, as evidenced by political incompetency may be seen in the prevalent mismanagement of our large cities, which is sufficiently demonstrated to serve as a warning to our general Government.

Mr. Whitcomb then proposed as remedies, first, positive restriction of immigration; second, a law requiring 21 years' residence as a requisite for naturalization, and third, an educational test for voting.

REV. A. M. ROUGH then represented the board of directors in an exceedingly humorous speech, in which he said he had first thought of giving a history of the board, but had concluded that a man's history should not be written till after his death. He next thought of making a prophecy, for that gives an unlimited field and trends on no one's toes. He had shut his eyes and looked over the field with prophetic vision, and had beheld the various departments in their complete development. A reference to Vice-President Matthews called forth prolonged applause. The university was feeling the hard times, but the speaker prophesied that the next year would see the best work ever done in the institution.

The position of director is not a sinecure. Regular meetings are held every month, and special meetings enough to double the number. Moreover, like a life membership in a missionary society, the office pays nothing, but requires constant giving.

THE GRADUATES.

Dean W. S. Matthews, in a few well chosen words, presented the class for graduation. He said that the instructors had put part of their life into these graduates, and now send them forth as their representatives to carry forward their work. The following degrees were then conferred by President Bovard:

Bachelor of Philosophy, Mary Cryder Bradley.
Bachelor of Science, William Card Whitcomb and James Edward Young.
Doctor of Medicine, Thomas Lucius Schaffner.
Master of Philosophy, William B. Slaughter.
The president also announced that Dean Matthews had received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from the Northwestern University. The announcement was greeted with hearty applause.

PRIZES—AWARDS FOR THE YEAR

were then announced as follows:

Hough prize for oratory, $25, Elger A. Reed, '90.
Inwood prize for declamation, $10, Estella Williamson; Matthew prize, $5, Othello Conway.

Chase prize for debate, $25, Alva G. Fessenden, '91.
Wing prizes for scholarship in freshman class, $25 each, to students with racks, Elmer E. Hall and Mary E. Sawyer, with honorable mention of James S. Dougherty.

Cantino prize for senior oratory, $50, Mary Cryder Bradley, Judge, Rev. R. G. Hutchins, D.D., Rev. M. F. Colburn and J. P. Widney, M.D.
Endowment essay prizes, $50, John A. Morrison of the College of Theology; $50, Thomas N. Carver, '93, of the College of Liberal Arts; $100, Arthur P. Brown of the College of Theology.

TRIGONOMETRY CREMATION.

At midnight last night the freshman class met on the campus near the flowering banana tree and celebrated the completion of Trig. by cremating the textbook with appropriate ceremonies. It then made a serenading tour of the houses of the faculty, singing among various college songs, an original song celebrating its advent to the rank of sophomore.

THE DEAN'S RECEPTION.

The festivities of a very busy week were closed last night by the college reception at the residence of Dean Matthews, corner Athena and McClintock avenues. One hundred and fifty invitations had been issued. The guests included the directors, the faculty of the college, the deans of the colleges, the senior class and their parents, the alumni, the Methodist pastors of the city and a few intimate friends of the family. The graduates of the day assisted by Dean and Mrs. Matthews to receive the guests.

THE NORMAL.

Thirty-one Graduates with "Sheep-skins."

The Normal School graduating exercises took place in the Grand Opera-house yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The doors were thrown open at 1 o'clock. The graduates, who were from all parts of Southern California. A number of people who came late could not get seats, and standing room even was at a premium. The stage was loaded with floral offerings, and when the graduating class and the faculty took their seats there was a most inspiring spectacle. There were eight young gentlemen and 23 young ladies in the graduating class. The young lady graduates were dressed in white, and made a very pretty picture.

Following was the programme, which was successful in every way. The essays were all in line with a single theme—the comparative merits of men and women as teachers:

Introduction—May King.
Qualifications of a Teacher: "Natural Qualifications of Woman," Nettie Johnson; "Natural and Acquired Qualifications of Man," Fred Billings; "Physical Strength," Dora Brown; "Political Knowledge and Executive Ability," Agnes Blakeley; "Comparison of Characteristic Qualities," Albert Sheldahl.

A parallel to the above—Angie Farnsworth.
Chorus, "March of the Men of Harlech."

Poem, "A Day in a Teacher's Life"—Myra King.
Education of the Present: "Home Training," Hattie Freeman.

Answer to above—Fred Hazzard.
The School: "Schools of Different Nations," Jennie Chambers; "The Kindergarten," Mary Stout; "Primary Work," Emma Barron; "Woman in Primary Schools," Mary L. Hayes.

"Ladies' trio," "Queen of the Night."
"Higher Schools and Colleges," Charles Huey; "Woman in Higher Schools," Fannie Cox; "Teaching, a Stepping-stone or a Perseus," Annie Reynolds; "Position of Woman," Teacher, Ada Williams; "After Culture," Ed S. Butterworth; "Woman's Work in After Culture," Ella Kane.

Piano duet, "Radiance Grand Waltz" (Gottschalk).
Education of the Past: John Sutton; "Woman in the Past," Nellie Barracough; "Points from History," Minnie Taylor; "Prejudice and Public Opinion," Maggie Cummins.

"Past and Present Compared," Nettie Davis; "Causes of the Great Advance of Education," Pliny Gregory; "Woman of the Future," Lena Corder.
Semi-chorus, "On the Laughing Wave."
Summary: "Superior Value of Woman's Work," Kate Madden; "Superior Value of Man's Work," Lewis Thorpe.
Conclusion: "Harmonies of the Profession," Ada Leitch.

Presentation of diplomas.
Class song.

A New Bugle Corps.
A feature of the parade on the Fourth of July will be the first appearance of the Seventh Regiment Bugle Corps, providing their uniforms arrive by that time. They have lately been organized by A. Ames, an army bugler, and they are rapidly gaining ground under his instruction. The boys will be in trim for the encampment, and will make a fine escort for the N.G.C. This is the first attempt at anything of the kind in this city, and it ought to prove a success. Following are names of the young gentlemen who compose the corps: Charles Dodsworth, Clarence Ferguson, Miles Ingersoll, Leland Green, Fred Maynard, Clarence Goldman, E. Randall, W. Baldwin, Ward Gould, George Fitch, Harry Garner, W. Mullen, John Carr, De los Rupert, H. Buxton, Forest McClure.

Physical Culture
on exhibition in free gymnastics for ladies only will be given at Grand Army Hall, Friday 28th of June, 8 o'clock p.m. by Miss Elizabeth Lundgren, gymnast from Sweden, where she has practiced for nine years. Admission free.

THE "MAL NERO."

MR. STUHR'S THEORY OF THE MYSTERIOUS DISEASE.

Opinion of the Government Expert.
Newton B. Pierce—He Says It Is a Microbe in the Sap of the Vine—Experiments to Be Tried.

Henry J. A. Stuhr, the liquor merchant of First street, who has had an extended experience in vine-growing and wine-making, and was for years superintendent of the wine cellars of the late Don Mateo Keller, has a well-defined theory relative to the mysterious disease which has been devastating the vineyards of California, and which, for the lack of a better name, has been called the mal nero, taking the designation by which a similar disease in Italy was known.

Mr. Stuhr says that the disease originated in the Anaheim vineyards, where it was discovered and whence it has spread to other parts of the State. According to his theory, many of the Anaheim vineyards pruned their vines too early—say in November. After that date there was apt to be enough warm weather to start the sap up in the vines, and they would then bleed from the cut surfaces. This sap, upon exposure to the air, would ferment, and the fermentation would, in turn, create a fungus growth. When once the fungus was well started, it would reproduce and perpetuate itself, spreading to other vines and other vineyards.

This is the first time that Mr. Stuhr's theories have been given to the public, and they seem so reasonable that they should challenge the fullest investigation.

If this is really the cause of the destructive disease, it is susceptible of remedy and control, and the sooner the vine-growers of the State find out all about it, the better it will be for their interests.

In this connection, the following, taken from the Anaheim Gazette of yesterday, is very interesting:

It is extremely probable that a solution of the dread vine disease which has devastated the vineyards of the southern portion of the State for some years past, baffling all efforts made to stay its havoc, is at last arrived at, and so soon as the proper remedies may be applied, the awful visitation will probably be a thing of the past. The government expert, Newton B. Pierce, sent here from Washington, is the gentleman to whom the credit for the discovery is due. His microscope has detected in the green leaves of the vine a deadly microbe, which has been allowed to go unmentioned, while countless methods of spraying for fungus and other imaginary evils which Mr. Pierce says have existed, probably still further to weaken the vines. There have been many causes assigned by different people for the prevalence of this vine disease, mildew, fungus, the influence of pepper and other trees, climatic peculiarities and others—but it is probable that the cause of the disease is the sap of the vine is the prime factor in the decay of our vineyards. When Mr. Pierce arrived here last week, knowing that our vines had been examined microscopically for several years and no trace of an insect found upon their roots, trunks or branches, he determined to look for the powerful glass to bear upon the sap of the vine.

He cut a piece of the bark from a vine, placed a drop of distilled water upon the wet surface, and gently scraped the spot with a needle. He then placed a drop of the same liquid upon a glass slide, and examined it with the microscope. They resemble a bubbling mass of whitish substance, considerably like yeast, and in a glass of water they were inspected in this manner, with the same result obtaining in each instance. The cause of the disease, then, was traced to the sap of the vine, and in the expert's opinion it will be only a question of time when all vineyards must necessarily succumb to the blight—a view shared in by many of our vineyardists—unless efficacious remedies are discovered soon. The theories of Prof. E. H. Wilson and J. de Barth Shorb in regard to fungus are ridiculed by the expert as most nonsensical. Mr. Pierce has no remedy, but that will come in all probability within a short time.

It is the opinion of Mr. Pierce that these microbes may subsist upon vegetation and be carried in irrigation ditches. He thinks the best plan, with a vineyard diseased with microbes, is to root up the vines and allow the ground to grow to weeds. When the latter are burned from the ground in the summer all traces of disease will be dispelled.

An examination will be made of the bark of different trees, to note the difference between them and the vines. There are some who have not as yet accepted the logic of Mr. Pierce's views, but there is not much doubt that we are today near the solution of this vexed problem than ever before.

CLEAR YOUR FACE.

It has been heretofore shown in these columns that modern medicine has demonstrated that a pimply skin is not the result of blood disease, but is caused by impurities in the blood, for which they now give vegetable correctives instead of potent and mineral blood purifiers. Two short testimonials are here given to contrast the action of the potent vegetable and Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. C. D. Stuart of 1201 Mission street, S. F., writes that she took one of the leading sarsaparillas for indigestion and dyspepsia. Its only effect was to cause pimples to appear on her face. Upon taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla the pimples were the disappearance of the pimples and she was subsequently cured of her indigestion and dyspepsia. Robert Stewart also writes from Petaluma, Cal., that being troubled with boils he found that one of the leading sarsaparillas actually increased the eruptions, which were removed at once by Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and disappeared almost immediately.

ANNUAL TRADE NUMBER

CONTAINING

A COMPLETE REVIEW OF THE YEAR.

Fifty-six Large Pages. Equivalent to a Two Hundred Page Book.

The Annual Trade Number of THE TIMES, now ready, is the most complete and interesting publication of that character ever published in Los Angeles.

NOTABLE FEATURES—It contains a business review of the year, embracing a mass of valuable facts bearing on the city and country; a thorough exposition of natural resources—mineral, vegetable, commercial and climatic; a review of the progress of the boom, with solid proofs that the country is now in better condition than was during the height of the real-estate excitement; a carefully compiled exposition of the varied inducements which Southern California offers to the health-seeker, the tourist and the tourist, besides a number of interesting and valuable special articles on pertinent subjects. It contains more solid information about the country than could be crowded into the compass of a hundred long letters, and for a few cents and the expenditure of a few minutes' time in writing the address you can send a friend more information than you could write in a month, even if you had the facts at hand. For a dollar you can supply ten families in the home—East with information that may lead them to join the army of pilgrims to Southern California, to their own and this country's advantage. Thus, whether viewed from the standpoint of friendship or self-interest, it will be seen that no better use can be made of a dollar than by purchasing the review, two copies of the great Annual Trade Number of THE TIMES. Not one-tenth of the pleasure can be bestowed in any other way for the same amount of money.

The Colton Scandal Under Investigation.

An Angeleno in an Ugly Scrape at San Bernardino.

Controller Dunn's Kick About Los Angeles Securities.

Borchers, the Ball-player, Arrested in Trouble—Arrested for Setting Fire to His Mother's Barn.

By telegraph to The Times. SAN BERNARDINO, June 27.—[Special.] The coroner's jury convened at Colton at 10 a.m. today in the case of the illegitimate infant of Mrs. Mayne, which died there under suspicious circumstances last Monday afternoon. The whole day was taken up in the examination of various witnesses, who gave much contradictory evidence. The mother still claims that Kirk is the father of the child, but it was elicited from Mrs. Mayne, the nurse, that Dunlap had been with the mother on Monday and Monday night, and that he was paying the bills.

Both Kirk and Dunlap have apparently skipped the country. Kirk was subpoenaed before he got away, and a search-warrant will issue for him tomorrow morning. A constable could not find Dunlap.

After a hard day's work, the jury was adjourned till Saturday, to await search for the men in the case.

AN OPERATOR'S BAD BREAK. J. N. Coughlin, a telegraph operator from Los Angeles, temporarily here in place of Operator Peckham, new in San Francisco, got on a "high lonesome" yesterday. He took a rig from Cropley's stable last night, drove out west of town, drove into a ditch, broke up the buggy and injured one of the horses. He got another rig from the famous stables this forenoon, and drove off somewhere and lost it. He came back to town and was placed under arrest and locked up. The horse and buggy have not yet been found. His conduct during the past two days has been most overbearing and insulting to patrons and assistants about the office.

SUMMER SHOWERS.

Late Rains in Various Parts of the State.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—[By the Associated Press.] A light rain commenced falling here this morning at 8 o'clock. The weather is cloudy and threatening.

SACRAMENTO, June 27.—Rain has been coming down heavily since an early hour this morning. It is feared much damage will be done to crops.

AUBURN, June 27.—It commenced raining here about 8:30 a.m., and is raining steadily at present. Fruit and grain will be greatly damaged if it continues.

RED BLUFF, June 27.—Rain commenced falling last evening, preceded by a heavy south wind. Half an inch had fallen at noon today.

SANTA ROSA, June 27.—Ten-hundredths of an inch of rain fell here today. No injury of consequence was done to the crops.

STAYVILLE, June 27.—Rain fell here today for several hours.

SOMONA, June 27.—It commenced raining this morning and continued all day.

MAXWELLVILLE, June 27.—Fifty-hundredths of an inch of rain fell here today. Damage to grain is slight.

ONOVILLE, June 27.—Nearly half an inch of rain fell here this morning. Occasional showers have been falling since.

WOODLAND, June 27.—Half an inch of rain fell today. Fruit and grain were drenched all over the country, but little damage will result.

ST. HELENA, June 27.—A slight rain fell today.

THE PHARMACEUTICALS.

Many Papers Read Before the Convention.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—[By the Associated Press.] The reading of essays with a section of scientific papers was resumed this morning before the American Pharmaceutical Convention. Nearly all the papers were technical or obscure to other than pharmacists.

The afternoon session was devoted to the section on "Pharmaceutical Education." Prof. Bedford of New York read a paper, in which he took the ground that the increase in the number of colleges of pharmacy during the past 20 years was a sufficient answer as to the necessity for the necessity for pharmaceutical education.

The report of the Committee on Preliminary Examination, recommending that those intending to become pharmacists should receive a thorough education before entering the college of pharmacy, was read and referred for publication.

A paper on "Poisonous Plants Indigenous to California," by Prof. Behr of the California College of Pharmacy, attracted much attention.

Several other papers were read, and after reflecting Prof. Bedford chairman and Prof. Stevens secretary of the section, it adjourned.

CALIFORNIA FRUITS.

The Demand for Them Increasing.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—[By the Associated Press.] E. L. Goodsell, a prominent fruit importer and auctioneer of New York, is pushing the sale of California fruits, and writes to a friend here that he is sending out to fruit buyers and to the trade within 400 miles of New York circulars asking dealers to stimulate the sale of fruit from California.

He states that the demand for California products is gradually growing, but he urges every shipper to ship only the best quality. He reports an improved market on raisins and quite an advance likely to follow in peaches, pineapples, and other fruits.

For account of the Earl Fruit Company, agents for the Golden Gate Fruit Association and others, a car of fruit as follows: Royal nectarine plums, $1.05 to $1.20; peach plums, $1.15 to $1.00; purple Duane plums, $1.70; royal apricots, in fair order, 85 cents; buerre d'or pears, $1.00 to $1.10.

For account of Rancho Chico Fruit Company one car of fruit was sold as follows: Peach plums, $1.40 to $1.20; peaches, $1.

THOSE BONDS.

Controller Dunn Objects to Los Angeles Securities.

SACRAMENTO, June 27.—[By the Associated Press.] Controller Dunn today refused to audit the warrant for the purchase of $100,000 worth of Los Angeles county bonds for the benefit of the school fund, on the ground that while authority was given bonds in 1887, and while the income therefrom reads, "signed this 3d day of January, 1887," yet the bonds are signed by S. M. Perry, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, and D. W. Hamilton, auditor, officials who did not take their positions for 18 months subsequent to the time when the signatures to the bonds are all alleged to have been appended.

The Governor today appointed and commissioned C. E. Grunsky of Sacramento member of the Examining Commission of Rivers and Harbors, vice William Ham Hall, disqualified by reason of holding a Federal office.

AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

Borchers, the Ball-player, Arrested for Arson.

SACRAMENTO, June 27.—[By the Associated Press.] A barn belonging to Mrs. Borchers, mother of George Borchers, a well-known base-ball pitcher, was burned tonight, entailing a loss of $1000.

Borchers was arrested on a charge of arson. He admitted having set fire to the barn, but claimed it was accidental. It is stated, however, that he made threats during the evening to burn the barn, because his mother refused to give him money.

A Brilliant Wedding.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Mable Ramona Pacheco, daughter of Gov. Pacheco, and William Sanders Tevis, son of Theo Tevis, were married tonight in Grace Church by Rev. Dr. Foute. The affair was a brilliant social event, and over 1000 guests witnessed the nuptial ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Tevis leave tomorrow for a short trip south, after which they will return to this city.

San Francisco Sports.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—The Atlas Athletic Club gave its first exhibition tonight. Joe Graham being whipped in three rounds by "Frenchy," from Texas. Joe Choyznaki was referee.

At the Olympic Clubrooms W. J. Zeiner won the gold medal in a fence-vaulting contest, making six feet seven inches, breaking the Pacific Coast amateur record.

San Joaquin County's Wealth.

STOCKTON, June 27.—The county assessment roll shows that the total value of all property in San Joaquin county is $38,687,000. The agricultural statistics show the following acreage for crops for the present year: Wheat, 200,000; corn, 417; barley, 108,900; corn, 915; alfalfa, 11,400.

New Designs Wanted.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—The Lick trustees, after two years' deliberation, have rejected the 23 designs for city hall statutory provided for in the bequest of $100,000 made by James Lick. New designs are to be advertised for.

RENAULT.

THE RECKLESS SHOOTER OF THE SHERIFF ON TRIAL.

He Says He Was Lying on the Bed Making Music When the Constables Came—They Read No Warrant to Him, But Fired at Him.

The trial of Benoit Renault for shooting Sheriff Aguirre May 2d, when the latter attempted to arrest him, began yesterday in Department No. 6 of the Superior Court. The prosecution is conducted by Deputy District Attorney McComas, assisted by C. C. Stevens, and the defense by Horace Bell. Very little that is new was brought out in the examination of witnesses.

Deputy Constable Daves told the story of his attempt to arrest the Frenchman, the latter's resistance, and the shots fired by him at the Constable. He swore that he exhibited the warrant of arrest, and that Renault knew perfectly well that he was an officer.

Dr. J. McCoy testified to the wound in Sheriff Aguirre's arm, and Detective Brady, Jellor Darcy and Deputy Will Hammel testified to the events at night, when the Sheriff came to the assistance of the constables in seeking the arrest.

Sheriff Aguirre then went on the stand and told how the reckless Frenchman shot him. He said that when he reached the cottage of the defendant, near the Rosedale Cemetery, he found some of his deputies there. He thought at first of going into the front door, but changed his mind and went to the rear of the house. He went in by the back door, to the room adjoining the one in which Renault was hiding. He called out to him that he was the Sheriff, had a warrant for his arrest for rape, and for him to surrender. There was no response. He called to him again, and told him he would not be harmed. Still no response. He took hold of the knob of the door and shook it. As he took his hand away, Renault fired at him through the door. The ball struck him in the left arm, inflicting a severe but not dangerous wound, just missing the artery. At this time Brady called to him that he thought Renault was coming out another door. He moved toward it, and Renault fired once or twice more. Brady got him once when it was discovered that he was wounded, bandaged the wound and he was taken back to the city.

This in substance is the Sheriff's account, and it is corroborated by the other witnesses.

Renault was put on the stand, and began his testimony. He said he was lying on his bed making music when the constables came; that they did not read any warrant to him, but took hold of him roughly. He struggled with them, when Daves shot at him, the bullet grazing his hand. He jerked loose and got his revolver out of a satchel, and by that time the constables ran away. He denied that he fired at them.

The witness had got this far when court adjourned for the day, and the trial will be resumed this morning.

FEDERATION OF LABOR.

A Resolution Denouncing Black-maller Browne.

The Los Angeles Federation of Labor held a meeting at Caledonia Hall last night, and passed the following resolution:

WHEREAS, a senseless agitation for day-labor on the severs has been started in this city, which we believe to be detrimental to the laboring men and the prosperity of the city; therefore, be it

Resolved, that we heartily endorse the action of the City Attorney in denouncing its author, Carl Browne, and we herewith submit our views on the public works: The competitive form of industry which succeeded feudalism is responsible for the "contract system," and, owing to a forced competition under unequal opportunities, it is fast degenerating into the "sweating system," in many occupations. There is a remedy for this, however, and those who suffer from these evils can secure relief at the ballot-box whenever they choose to demand it. Day labor applied to any great extent on municipal work only breeds further corruption in politics, and leads to boss rule. Therefore, as the solution of the labor problem hinges on a free and intelligent use of the voting power, anything that tends to corrupt the ballot-box is an obstacle in the way of justice and the proper reward of toil.

THE CRAZY MURDER.

PECULIAR DEVELOPMENTS BY THE AUTOPSY.

A Vein in One Arm of the Murdered Man Had Been Opened with the Probable Object of Bleeding Him to Death.

Coroner Meredith last evening held an inquest at the undertaking-rooms of Orr & Sutch on Spring street on the body of Ah Dock, alias Santiago, the old Chinaman murdered in the Chinese hospital Wednesday night by a crazy Chinaman named Ah Lem.

Previous to the inquest a post-mortem examination was made by Dr. D. Granville MacGowan, which developed a rather peculiar feature in connection with the tragedy. Besides the wounds on the old man's face and head, inflicted with the shovel, fracturing the skull and inflicting injuries sufficient to cause death, two cuts, made by an ordinary lancet or sharp knife, were found on the inside of the left arm, just below the elbow, severing several large veins. Another cut on the outside of the right arm also just below the elbow, and another cut on the left leg at the knee, laying the cap bare. These injuries were not noticed until the body was stripped on the operating-table, and when the circumstances surrounding the killing are taken into consideration they would seem to indicate that the murderer, with the fiendish cunning of a crazy man, had waited until the old man had gone to bed and got to sleep, when he made the cuts in the arm for the purpose of opening the veins and letting him bleed to death, after which he tried to disable him by cutting the muscles of his leg. The pain from the last cut must have awakened him, and when he attempted to arise from the bed, the murderer picked up the shovel and finished him. This theory is also borne out by the fact that very little blood was found in the body, the heart and larger vessels being empty, indicating that he had been bled for some time. On the other hand, one of the larger arteries in the face was severed by the blow from the shovel, but there was comparatively little blood from this cut, as would have been the case had there been no loss of blood previous to the fatal blow, so that all the probabilities are in favor of the first proposition.

At 7:30 o'clock the jury was sworn in, and after viewing the body the taking of testimony was at once commenced. John Wesley, the colored man who had identified the man Lem running away from the house, being the first witness. Wesley merely testified to seeing Lem running down the alley, and afterward that he went with Officer Sheets and found the colored man, when he was placed under arrest and sent to the station.

Charles Miller, the white man who occupies the adjoining house to where the murder was committed, stated that he had heard a noise in the room, and had gone to see what was the matter, when Lem rushed out of the door and past him. He then called to the colored man, Wesley, and went to get a lamp to investigate, when he found old Santiago lying on the floor, dead, with blood issuing from the wounds in his head. The room, he said, was used as a sort of hospital by the Chinese, and had been occupied by three men, old Santiago, Lem, who was also crazy, and a boy named—

Dr. MacGowan, who was also crazy, thought that he was the murderer, and the killing took place, but afterward came in to go to bed, when he was arrested by the police. He thought the killing was the result of an old grudge, as Santiago and Lem had had a quarrel some time ago, and did not get along well together. The boy Dock was also weak-minded.

Both of the Chinamen were brought into the room, and identified by Miller. Lem had a broad grin on his face, but little blood looked more like a wooden man than anything else.

Officer Sheets testified to arresting Lem, who, he said, had several blood spots on his face and hands, which he tried to wash off, but was prevented. He knew nothing about the killing, but identified the shovel found in the room, which, he said, had fresh blood on it at the time.

Chang Que Sing, the Chinese interpreter, was then sworn, and the boy Dock made a statement, declining to be sworn, saying that he slept in the room with the others, but had gone out for a walk, and when he returned he found a crowd about the door. He had gone inside, when the police arrested him. He had seen the shovel about the house.

Lem, the murderer, was next examined. He denied in the blandest manner possible that he knew anything about the murder. The colored man had notified the police, and he had been taken in charge, but had not been arrested. He denied that he had ever seen the shovel, and was proceeding to talk in Chinese when the interpreter said that he believed he was out of his mind, whereupon the examination abruptly closed.

Dr. MacGowan testified to the result of the autopsy, as given above, after which the jury, after a few seconds' deliberation, returned a verdict that "Ah Dock, alias Santiago, aged 60 years, and a native of China, came to his death on the 25th inst. from the effects of wounds on the head, inflicted with a blunt instrument in the hands of Ah Lem."

Lem will probably be examined to-day as to his mental condition, and sent to the asylum at Stockton.

ANOTHER FIGHT.

Kelleher to Meet Ellingsworth Here.

The Southern California Athletic Club received a dispatch yesterday from Denny Kelleher, agreeing to meet Joe Ellingsworth here in a fight to a finish, for a prize of $1500.

The club offered the above purse, stipulating that $1000 should go to the winner, and $500 to the loser.

Kelleher is under engagement to stand up before Joe Lannon on the 5th of next month for 25 rounds, and he will not start for this city till after that date.

Kelleher and Ellingsworth are accounted great brawlers, and the fight, which will come off about the middle of August, will enlist the interest of all sports hereabout.

A Boom Transaction.

The case of Poindexter Dunn vs. C. E. Mackey came up before Judge Wade yesterday. It arose over a real-estate transaction during the boom.

Mr. Dunn bought a piece of property through Mr. Mackey, paying for it $10,000. They agreed to sell it for him again in six months for $12,500 or more. The subsidence of the boom knocked the plan in the head, and Mr. Dunn sued Mr. Mackey on the agreement to sell for a greater sum.

The case occupied the attention of the court during the greater part of the day, and judgment was finally rendered for the defendant.

WHALING.

He Makes a "Vision" At a School.

Michael Whaling has been at it again; this time at the Eighth-street school, corner of Grand avenue and Eighth street. He made a disgusting exhibition of himself yesterday, that will be particularly so to those who voted such a member of the Board of Education.

The scene, as described by an eyewitness, presents Mr. Whaling not merely as an ignorant, intermeddler but as a would-be bull of women.

At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon a few of the teachers at the Eighth-street school, and some of the pupils, were engaged in making the averages for the report cards. The examinations have been held, and the yearly round-up is in progress. It is the custom of the schools, after the examinations are over, and the reports of the teachers may have time to get the work done. It is also the custom to give the pupils a hand in some of this work, by having them assist in turning out the averages. For two days past the work has been going on, and yesterday was about completed. At 2 o'clock mentioned, when the third "school-marm" was at work, and most of the boys and girls had been sent home, the door opened and a man walked into the hall. He stalked into a room, with his hat on the back of his head, and smelling conspicuously of whisky.

Miss M. K. Scott, principal of the school, Miss Minnie Irwin, Miss Regina Weinshank and Miss M. Foy were all of the 11 teachers remaining, the others having taken their reports home to work on them.

Miss Scott was in the room, also some children, and did not know that the visitor was Whaling; the other teachers were in other rooms.

"Where's all the pupils?" said Whaling, raspingly.

"They have gone home," quietly remarked Miss Scott, as he few remaining boys and girls looked up at the sound of the loud voice.

"Why ain't they here?" he demanded.

Miss Scott informed him.

"Well, that won't do. It's preposterous that citizen pay taxes and you teachers play. I'll see about this. I'll report this. It oughtn't to be allowed. You should keep them here until the proper time for them to go home."

Whaling blustered and fumed about, keeping his hat on his head, and speaking so roughly and loudly that the other teachers came running down to see what was the matter.

It dawned upon Miss Scott that it must be M. Whaling, and she asked him if that wasn't his name. He replied that it was, and then began to speak about principals in the schools.

"Powers has got a petition he is taking around among the board to have made principal in the schools," he said, with a leer. "I haven't signed it yet, because Powers hasn't done anything for me."

Miss Scott told him that the teachers and herself were working under the orders of Superintendent Friesner, and if he had any complaints to make he should go to headquarters.

"Well, I will," he said. "I'll see that Friesner attends to these things. You all think lots of Friesner, don't you?"

"When we get male principals in your place, he won't like it so well, will he?" said Miss Scott, looking at him with a smiling chuckle.

"Friesner is kind to you and you like him, don't you?"

Miss Scott fired up and told M. Whaling that they do like Mr. Friesner and that he is a gentleman. She then turned away and went to a closet for her wraps. Whaling followed and asked if Miss Weinshank had gone.

Miss Scott told him that she would call her up.

With his disagreeable and leering smile Whaling told Miss Scott that he knew her relatives quite well. Miss Scott said that must be a mistake, as she has no relatives in Los Angeles, that her relatives did not live in the city.

"You don't live in the county, then," he said. "I have got a resolution that I expect to introduce at the next meeting of the board that no teacher shall be employed who does not live in the county."

Miss Scott made no reply to this threat of the member of the Board of Education, and the other teachers coming in, after a few more remarks, Whaling said to the ladies that he hoped they would forgive him if he had said anything he should not say, and with his hat still on his head, and his breath still smelling strongly of whisky, departed.

Weavers on a Strike.

FALL RIVER (Mass.), June 27.—The weavers at Narragansett mill struck work today on account of a disagreement arising out of the discharge of a sub-overseer. Four hundred looms are idle.

Rapid Harvesting.

The time was, and that not long ago, when a threshing-machine propelled by horsepower that could run on three or four hundred bushels of grain a day was doing well and yet in a few short years there seems to have been a revolution, and today we find the steam engine supplanting the horse-power, and instead of a small amount of work being done, what would have been thought impossible are being accomplished. Messrs. Montgomery Grant & Co., the popular agricultural implement dealers, have started out within a few days five complete outfits, with either a California Chief double cylinder or an Advance 30-horse-power engine, with threshers, to the Antelope Valley, Santa Ana, Oceanside, Colton and Beaumont, the outfit leaving from their place of business, No. 23 North Los Angeles street, this morning, with 16 men and 8 horses, to handle the 180 sacks of grain which are threshed out daily. Yet the expense is comparatively trifling considering the amount of work accomplished. This is the first year Messrs. Montgomery Grant & Co. have sent out these fine outfits, and the enterprising ranchmen are availing themselves of these advantages. It is safe to assert that in a few years the harvesting of our rich grain fields will be done entirely by steam engines and threshers furnished by this enterprising firm.

GRAND BALL

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

All old soldiers are invited to meet at 204 South Spring street this evening.

An important meeting of Cahuenga Tribe, I.O.R.M., will be held at their hall this evening.

Prof. Arbuckle is to open his new dancing-hall at 512 South Spring street tomorrow evening.

One marriage license was issued yesterday as follows: Isaac Craig, aged 27, and Mary C. Beardon, aged 19.

Richard Deakers was elected assignee yesterday in Judge Shaw's court, by the creditors, in the insolvency case of John Caleri.

Maj. John Fallon, formerly of the English army, and now of Wilmington, was admitted to citizenship yesterday by Judge Wade.

A literary and dramatic entertainment will be given by the students of Harvard Military Academy at Army Hall this evening.

S. P. Sibley, charged with the embezzlement of $65 from I. B. Williams, his employer, was before Judge McKinley yesterday, and his trial was set for July 15th.

Mrs. Florence Williams of San Francisco will lecture next Sunday, at 8 p.m., in Turner Hall, under the auspices of the National Club. After the lecture there will be a discussion.

The remains of little Mary Lindley, who died in Boston on the 6th inst., were yesterday buried in Evergreen Cemetery. Dr. and Mrs. Lindley returned with the body Wednesday.

Information was filed yesterday in the Superior Court against J. P. Goytino, for forgery, and Alfred Norman, for assault with a deadly weapon. Saturday was set for their arraignment.

Clifford Crawford and Jackson, accused of a crime against nature, committed in the County Jail, were examined before Justice Lockwood yesterday and committed, their bail being fixed at $2000 each. They went back to jail.

In the case of F. W. de Van vs. W. F. O'Dea, before Judge Shaw, judgment for the plaintiff was rendered yesterday for $149.25. It was an appeal from a justice court, and involved a real-estate transaction, in which the plaintiff sued for an unpaid commission.

J. T. Sheward, the dry goods merchant, has opened a free library for the use of the employees of his establishment. It is hedged about by good regulations, without dues or fines, and the entire expense borne by Mr. Sheward, who deserves credit for the liberal enterprise.

A quarrel between Mr. Haasen and Ralph Demorest, which resulted in the arrest of the former at the instance of Demorest, on a charge of disturbing the peace, was settled in Justice Lockwood's court yesterday. The defendant was reprimanded by the Court and discharged.

In the United States Circuit Court yesterday a complaint was filed against C. W. Johnson, for cutting timber on Government land in San Bernardino county. It alleges that he cut timber valued at $300, damaging the land to the extent of $200, and judgment is asked by the Government for $500.

Mrs. Clark was tried in Justice Sargent's court yesterday for disturbing the peace, on a charge of disturbing the peace, brought by Mrs. Faber. She was found guilty and fined $7. The parties to the case live on Oxford street, and the trouble arose out of a quarrel. Considerable bad language was used, and threats made by Mrs. Clark.

John A. Logan W.R.C., assisted by Frank Bartlett, Stanton and Gelchick W.R.C., will tender a reception to Department-Inspector P. Stanton Marshall and Mrs. Moody of Truckee, at their hall, No. 24 South Spring street, Tuesday, July 2d, at 8 p.m. The Executive Committee will meet in same hall Saturday, June 29th, at 3 p.m.

The city has become so quiet after night that most of the night policeman have got to carrying dogs with them on their rounds for company. One man stated yesterday that he had not seen a living being on his beat after 10 o'clock for the past eight nights. It is only fair to say that this is in the residence portion of the city.

A divorce was granted Joseph P. Rowan yesterday from his wife, Mary J. Rowan, in Department No. 5 of the Superior Court. They had been married 10 years and had three children. Over a year ago Mrs. Rowan deserted her husband and children, much to his distress. The custody of the children was granted to the husband by the Court.

Chamberlain, now charged with battery, formerly charged with the rape of a little girl named Coe, was called for trial before Justice Lockwood yesterday. He had not been notified and was not present. His bond was forfeited, but he appeared in the afternoon and the forfeiture was set aside. The case was then continued until July 1st.

A preliminary meeting was held at No. 28 South Spring street Wednesday evening to organize a lodge of the order of Knights and Ladies of Honor. There was a large attendance of ladies and gentlemen who signed the charter list, which will be kept open until Monday evening next. The next meeting will be held Saturday evening at the same place.

There were but four arrivals at the County Jail yesterday, Jesus and Miguel Lopez, a couple of Mexicans who were sent in from Pomona to serve 10-day sentences for disturbing the peace; John Browne, for disturbing the peace from San Pedro, and Ah Ling, an insane Chinaman, from the city. At 7 o'clock there were 100 prisoners in the tanks.

The Central W.C.T.U. will meet Friday at 2:30 p.m., in the Temperance Temple. Mrs. Mary Carbutt will present a paper on the "Property Rights of Married Women under the Law of California." At the last meeting Mrs. Dr. Blakie of Edinburgh, Scotland, president of the British Woman's Temperance Association and Scottish Christian Union, was present and spoke briefly of the work in Scotland.

Yesterday morning word was sent to the police station that a man was lying in the bushes near the Orange-street reservoir, and shooting at boys. The patrol wagon was sent out, and a young Mexican, who came here with the Spanish Opera Company some months ago, named Ygnacio Mercado, was found in the place described. On the way to the station Mercado tried to make away with his pistol, but was detected and brought in, when he was booked for discharging firearms in the city limits. It developed that by some mistake the ordinance reads, "Within the fire limit," instead of "city limits," and Mercado was discharged. The Council will probably amend the ordinance at the next meeting.

PEOPLE'S STORE, FRIDAY, JUNE 28, 1929.

AN HOUR WITH REMNANTS.

Of course you know Friday is our remnant day. But there is in remnant, as with all other things, a difference, and this remnant day is different. Our New York buyer has been with us since the beginning of the week, and finding that of goods that should, in his judgment, have been remnant long ere this, has made remnant prices of all such. Besides you have noticed the activity in our store, and the overwhelming patronage we have received. The above is partly the cause. We have slashed into stuff to a terrible degree, and accumulated about twice as many remnant as during an ordinary week. Your gain, we are earnest, we must, we will, we can, sell goods. Not only are we busy, but everybody around us. If you will visit us you will find how earnestly and zealously we are at work—doing what? Reducing our prices to the ebb and flow of the tide that washes them into the lap of the public. Especially is this true of our clothing and dress goods department, wherein for the present we will pass as philanthropists, and almost give away clothes for men and boys and dresses for ladies and children.
